

BEAU JORDAN BIOGRAPHY

Beau was born in Sydney in 2013. He moved to Los Angeles at age two and has lived in many countries around the world due to his parent's work in the film and television industries. Beau attended pre-schools in three different continents and has been to several primary schools in different parts of the world.

Beau has been passionate about acting from a very young age, putting on self-devised theatrical productions that he performed regularly to friends and family.

Beau first attended acting school in New Zealand in 2020 at TAPAC (The Auckland Performing Arts Centre) where he was part of a kid's drama ensemble. In 2021 Beau moved to Sydney and since then has been part of many drama workshops at NIDA and ATYP. He was chosen to be part of his school's (International Grammar School) theatresports team and competed against other schools around Sydney. He's also an avid film maker, writing, directing and acting in many comedic short films that he shoots and edits on iphones and uploads to his youtube channel. He is currently enrolled in Australian Theatre for Young People's Saturday drama ensemble under Lana Filies.

Beau's ambition is to be a professional actor and director.
